Overnight accommodations

The park offers two walk-in campsites, two backcountry campsites at Wallace and Jay lakes and five cabins for overnight guests. There are two restrooms available. One is located at the parking trailhead and another restroom with shower facility near the cabins.

The walk-in campsites are 20 to 50 feet from the parking area, are very private and have picnic tables and fire rings. The backcountry campsites require a 4- to 7-mile hike. These sites have picnic tables, fire rings and outhouses and are near lakes. All campsites are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

The five cabins are within walking distance of the Woody Trail, which provides access to Wallace Falls and Wallace Lake. Each cabin features an eight-foot covered front porch, picnic table, fire ring, barbecue stand, electric heat, lights and locking doors. Each cabin is furnished with bunk beds that sleep three and a full-size futon bed for two. Cabin C3 and C4 are pet friendly. Two of the cabins have two rooms, and two of the cabins have a ramp that is accessible to people with disabilities. Reservations for the cabins may be made online at www.parks.state.wa.us or by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688.

Welcome to Wallace Falls

Wallace Falls State Park features some of the most scenic areas in Western Washington. This 1,533-acre camping park features shoreline on the Wallace River, and Wallace, Jay and Shaw lakes.

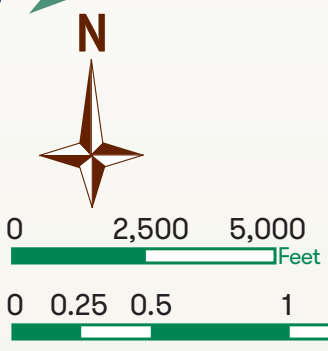

Located on the west side of the Cascade Mountains, the park features numerous waterfalls, including the middle Wallace Falls which drops from a height of 265 feet. The park also has large coniferous forests, back-country lakes and fast-moving rivers and streams. Opportunities to view local wildlife abound, including peregrine falcons which inhabit the rock cliffs of the Index Town Wall.

The park is popular for hiking, mountain biking, wildlife viewing and rock climbing. A rock-climbing wall is 8 miles east, near Index. Fishing, rafting, kayaking, canoeing and swimming are popular at Big Eddy, a satellite park 5 miles east of Wallace Falls along Highway 2.
