

Help shape the future of

- Palouse Falls State Park
- Lyons Ferry State Park
- Lewis and Clark Trail State Park

Washington State Parks and Recreation Commission (State Parks) is conducting a Classification and Management Planning or CAMP process that will include public workshops, web-based information and public comment opportunities. Through this process State Parks will identify management alternatives to address park related recreation, cultural and natural resource issues. More information can be found on the project website at <http://bit.ly/PalousePlan>.

We are interested in what you have to say. State Parks will be hosting two public workshops covering the same information. This phase asks the public to provide State Parks with comments.
